MOST HOLY TRINITY

Sr. Mary Jean's Column

At last, one of our Catholic bishops has spoken out about the proposed budget bill that is now before congress. It is a call to action for all of us to speak up in the name of the poor, the immigrant, and all those who rely on Medicaid for their health care coverage. This article was first published in America Magazine on June 3, 2025. It gives us much food for thought.

By Most Reverend John C. Wester
Archbishop of Santa Fe

Editor's note: Most Reverend John C. Wester's OP-Ed, "Trump's 'big beautiful bill' betrays the poor. The church must oppose it." appeared in "America Magazine" June 3, 2025. Archbishop Wester was installed June 4, 2015.

"The U.S. House of Representatives recently passed a budget reconciliation bill that is contrary to Catholic social teaching. The bill is now waiting to be debated in the Senate. It should be strongly opposed.

"Moreover, the church and the bishops of the United States should lead the way in speaking against this bill and calling on Catholics to work for its defeat. Because of its overall effects on those who are most in need, passing this budget would be a moral failure for American society as a whole. Unless the church opposes it in the clearest possible terms, we will squander the credibility of our witness to the Gospel and Christ's command to care for the "least of these."

"Known as the One Big, Beautiful Bill Act, the legislation is anything but beautiful, at least from the perspective of Catholic teaching. It basically steals from the poor to give to the rich, and it will leave millions of low-income U.S. citizens struggling to survive. It also funds a mass deportation campaign that will separate immigrant families and profoundly harm children, including U.S.-citizen children. And that is just the tip of the iceberg.

"It is estimated that the legislation would cut $700 billion over 10 years in the Medicaid spending, leaving 7.6 million American families without health-care coverage. It also reduces spending for food assistance to the nation's poorest by an estimated $300 billion over 10 years, adversely impacting 40 million low-income persons, including 16 million children. As many as 5.4 million per year could lose food assistance from the cuts.. As many as 5.4 million per year could lose food assistance from the cuts. According to the Congressional Budget Office, the bill transfers wealth from citizens with the lowest tenth of income to those with the highest tenth of income, the largest transfer in the U.S. history.

"On immigration, it appropriates $75 billion for a mass deportation campaign, which includes funding for detention centers and a substantial increase in border and interior enforcement personnel. It allows these agents to remove people based on the suspicion of illegal activity, without judicial review. And it increases fees for such benefits as temporary protected status (T.P.S.), humanitarian parole and work permits for asylum applicants, leaving these important protection mechanisms out of the reach of qualifying families.
